

GLOBAL CULTURE AND SPORT

WOMEN IN ACTION SPORT CULTURES

Identity, Politics and Experience

Edited by

Holly Thorpe and Rebecca Olive

Global Culture and Sport Series

Series Editors: Stephen Wagg, Leeds Metropolitan University, UK, and David Andrews, University of Maryland, USA The Global Culture and Sport series aims to contribute to and advance the debate about sport and globalization through engaging with various aspects of sport culture as a vehicle for critically excavating the tensions between the global and the local, transformation and tradition and sameness and difference. With studies ranging from snowboarding bodies, the globalization of rugby and the Olympics, to sport and migration, issues of racism and gender, and sport in the Arab world, this series showcases the range of exciting, pioneering research being developed in the field of sport sociology.

Endorsements

'A highly engaging collection that covers an array of fascinating topics from roller derby to parkour. Once started, it's hard to put down'.

—Robyn Longhurst, University of Waikato, New Zealand.

'This volume opens the topic of 'sport' to postcolonial feminisms, queer theory, critical masculinities, and a continuing regard for the social lives of women and girls'.

—Krista Comer, Institute for Women Surfers, USA

Acknowledgements

We are grateful to our wonderful authors who embraced this anthology with such enthusiasm. Also, many thanks to the editorial and production team from Palgrave Macmillan and to our reviewers. We had the pleasure of working on this book while both living in Raglan and working at the University of Waikato. We are grateful for the constant support and encouragement from our colleagues across the University of Waikato, and particularly those from Te Oranga, School of Human Development and Movement Studies.
